BACKGROUND

I. Grant Overview

a. Purpose & Background

The Jewish Healthcare Foundation (JHF) is operating as the fiscal agent for federal Coronavirus State Fiscal Recovery Funds provided through the Pennsylvania Department of Human Services. A portion of this funding is being made available by JHF for this RFP under a component titled “Maternal Care Innovation Grants.”

JHF is seeking innovative proposals from interested and qualified organizations that will reduce maternal mortality, reduce maternal morbidity, and/or support new families in Pennsylvania. Maternal mortality remains a serious public health issue in Pennsylvania with a pregnancy-associated mortality rate of 82 deaths per 100,000 live births. Race, pre-existing health conditions, social determinants of health, and early access to prenatal care have all been linked as contributing factors of poor maternal outcomes.

Funding available through this RFP is intended to provide short-term maternal care innovation grants that directly impact Pennsylvania residents. Grants may range from infrastructure, information technology, staff, services, materials, etc., as long as applications demonstrate how the grant will benefit pregnant individuals and/or new families.

Innovation is broadly defined under this RFP, and JHF is looking for organizations ranging in size and experience that are uniquely suited to positively impact maternal health outcomes in Pennsylvania. JHF is particularly interested in programs and services that address systemic challenges affecting maternal health outcomes.

JHF recognizes that needs vary across Pennsylvania, and will give equal consideration to projects ranging in size and scope. Applicants in resource-rich regions are encouraged to establish and/or describe partnerships and collaborations with other organizations to ensure a wholistic approach to improving maternal health outcomes.

Preference will be given to unique programs and services that are new or emerging and those that are evidence-based promising practices. This funding is not intended to provide operational costs for existing programs or services or to fund operational shortfalls or deficits. Funding may be used to enhance community impacts of existing programs and services.

Maternal Mortality Review Committees (MMRC) in Pennsylvania have developed recommendations to improve outcomes based on state-wide maternal health data. JHF strongly encourages any potential applicant to review these reports and to align their proposals with the recommendations made therein. The latest reports and recommendations from the Pennsylvania MMRC and Philadelphia MMRC can be found here:

<https://www.health.pa.gov/topics/healthy/Pages/Maternal-Mortality.aspx>

Examples of innovative ways to address maternal mortality, maternal morbidity, and support new families include have appeared across the nation, including but not limited to programs such as: North Carolina Babyscripts Diabetes Program, which provides daily blood sugar monitoring for pregnant individuals at risk for gestational diabetes; Text4Baby, an app that provides regular text messages on nutrition, safe sleep, doctor's visits, pregnancy, and baby milestones; and Cradles to Crayons' Gear Up for Baby program, which provides baby safe essentials.

JHF encourages organizations to apply that provide services and support to populations experiencing disproportionately high rates of maternal mortality and/or morbidity as well as pregnant individuals and new families that have been disproportionately affected by the COVID-19 pandemic, including but not limited to:

- Black or African American persons
- Hispanic or Latino persons
- LGBTQ populations
- Refugee populations and people with undocumented status
- People who live in rural/sparsely populated areas
- People with lower incomes and people experiencing poverty
- People experiencing homelessness
- People who are medically underserved
- Persons with substance use disorder
- Persons who are incarcerated or detained or people who were formerly incarcerated

The Jewish Healthcare Foundation will select and award subgrants until funding is fully expended. Grantees may be awarded for a one or two-year period. Funding amounts and Applicant's requested budget should reflect the full scope of proposed activities.

JHF shall provide a percentage of the total budget request to awardees as an initial upfront payment. Additional payments may be made to awardee following successful demonstration of the proposed work and regular reporting from awardee, following a schedule to be determined by JHF and detailed in the agreement. Any amount not fully expended by the end of the contract must be returned to JHF in full.
